

Capture newly established and retroactive Medicaid eligibles with EligibilityReview

Medicaid Batch Eligibility Verification

EligibilityReview, powered by Cerco LLC, is a batch processing search engine designed to maximize revenue through identification of newly established or retroactive Medicaid eligible accounts. This secure, fully automated process gives providers the flexibility to choose frequency of submission and presents the returned data in a variety of formats, ensuring options for data use.

CHALLENGE

Providers routinely treat patients whose accounts for whatever reason get classified as self-pay. In many cases, those patients will enroll for Medicaid benefits and not relay that information to all providers. All too often, providers will check eligibility for Medicaid benefits once, maybe twice, find nothing and not continue to check Medicaid eligibility any further. Current solutions in the marketplace are priced such that the cost can be prohibitive to run a systematic, on-going search for Medicaid benefits.

SOLUTION

EligibilityReview, powered by Cerco LLC, is a secure batch search engine for providers to submit batches of self-pay or other desired accounts through a systematic and perpetual check of the state's Medicaid eligibility file. Throughout this review process, reports are generated to the provider which lists patient accounts with new or retroactive eligible Medicaid benefits. EligibilityReview, through an innovative pricing model, is able to offer this solution at a fraction of the current market cost, resulting in more revenue for providers while saving time and money in the search process.

RESULT

Clients have consistently attested to the increased collections identified by EligibilityReview. Clients have also been pleased with the significant reduction in the cost to collect through the innovative pricing model used by EligibilityReview. The systematic and perpetual checking of Medicaid benefits coupled with an innovative pricing model deliver on our commitment to increasing revenue while dramatically reducing cost.
